WORLD BOOK ONLINE

From pre-K to high school and beyond, World Book Online has databases for every learner at every level. World Book Online hosts thousands of articles, as well as hundreds of maps, videos, and other media for an immersive learning experience.

Teacher resources, curriculum correlations, learning standards, and other useful tools for educators are included across all databases.

A visually stunning resource with intuitive iconography, World Book Kids provides thousands of easy-to-read articles with embedded multimedia for increased comprehension. It includes fantastic age-appropriate resources, such as Important People, Science Projects, Webquests, and games.

World Book Student is packed with such research tools as Citation Builder, How to Do Research, Compare Places, Interactive Maps, and the World Book Atlas to help students get the most out of their research experience. World Book editors more fully explain current events in Behind the Headlines, which includes quizzes and lesson plans.

To access this great resource, please visit our website at: <http://spencercountypubliclibrary.org/databases/> and click on World Book Online. The username and password is scpl.

Important News

Attention Overdrive and Libby Users!

Beginning November 1st, Macmillan Publishers is implementing a new library business model that allows a library to purchase a single copy of a new title in ebook format when released. Then, Macmillan will impose an eight-week embargo on additional copies of that title sold to libraries. This means members of the eIndiana Digital Consortium will have extremely long wait times for popular items. Some authors affected by the embargo include Nora Roberts, Mary Kay Andrews, Jeffrey Archer, C. J. Box and many others.

Macmillan's new policy is a slap in the face to libraries everywhere. Libraries purchase millions of books and ebooks every year. They help promote authors and their materials to the public every day. Macmillan's new embargo will make it hard for libraries to provide access to information and to fully serve their communities. Publishers also charge libraries anywhere from five to 10 times more per title than they do for regular customers in an attempt to cripple our purchasing ability, and in turn, library patron access. Libraries have a duty to spend our funds wisely. The growing demand for e-content coupled with the outrageous pricing makes it difficult to provide reasonable and equitable access.

We here at SCPL apologize that our service will be impacted by these new rules, and will continue to do our best to provide the resources that are important to you. We encourage our Overdrive and Libby users to return items from the digital collection after reading them rather than waiting for them to expire from the your bookshelf. This is a simple technique to help decrease the hold time for items.

The American Library Association and Public Library Association are calling on libraries and library patrons to contact Macmillan Publishers to share their objections to the company's new policies. If you are upset by Macmillan's embargo, please contact them!
